Blows of the Former Bank Clerk Have No Force and He Is Unable to Hurt Jeff.

RESULT NEVER IN DOUBT

THOUSANDS WITNESS BIGGEST EVENT OF THE YEAR IN PUGILISM.

Fighting is Fast from the Start and Spectators Get the Worth of Their Money.

MECHANICS' PAVILION, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—James J. Jeffries, champion heavy weight of the world, played with Jim Corbett for nine rounds and a half to-night, and then Corbett's seconds motioned to Referee Graney to stop the fight in order to save their man from needless punishment.

The end came shortly after the beginning of the tenth round, when Jeffries planted one of his terrific left swings on Corbett's stomach. The man who conquered John L. Sullivan dropped to the floor in agony, and the memorable scene at Carson City, when Bob Fitzsimmons landed his solar plexus blow was almost duplicated. This time, however, Corbett struggled to his feet and again faced his gigantic adversary. With hardly a moment's hesitation Jeffries swung his right and again landed on Corbett's stomach. Jim dropped to the floor, and then it was that Tommy Ryan, seeing that it was all over, motioned to Referee Graney to stop the punishment.

JEFF HAS IMPROVED.
The fight to-night demonstrated beyond all doubt that Jeffries stands alone in his class. He showed remarkable improvement in both speed and skill. Corbett, during the first part of the fight, was almost outpointed, and the few blows that he landed on Jeffries were apparently without sting. Jeffries was never in better condition. He looked lighter than usual, and the way he moved about on his feet and the frequency with which he countered Corbett's leads astonished everybody.

Corbett, in comparison with the big man opposed to him, looked very light, but was really heavier than ever before. He appeared to have lost some of his old-time speed and skill during the early part of the fight, but this may have been due to Jeffries' marvelous improvement. Corbett's physical condition appeared to be all that he had claimed for. He stood manly and came back swinging lefts and rights and landing frequently, but his blows hardly stung Jeffries. The champion was not only stronger, faster and cleverer than ever before, but he used his head to better purpose, and although Corbett would hit him hard enough to hurt an ordinary man, Jeffries would bore right in without noticing the blows and would deliver telling blows that materially helped in deciding the result of the fight.

CORBETT HAD NO CHANCE.
At first Corbett was very cautious and apparently was outpointed by Jeffries, but later in the fight he warmed up and showed some of his old-time cleverness. From the first, however, it was Jeffries who was the hope of the crowd. He made a gallant fight, but he never stood a show to win.

After the fight was over Corbett quickly recovered, walked over to Jeffries and shook him warmly by the hand. He said: "Jim, you beat me fairly. You stand alone. No one can touch you."

Referee Graney said after the fight that it was a great heavy-weight contest. He continued:

"Corbett was very clever, but Jeffries was almost equally so. The fight was a masterpiece. He practically outboxed Corbett during the fight with the exception of the eighth and ninth rounds. Every blow that he landed told and his superior weight and strength were bound to win in the end."

Timekeeper George Harting stated that the blows that won the fight were lefts to the stomach followed by a right to the same place as soon as Corbett arose to his feet after taking the count of nine. "It was the best fight I have ever seen," he said. "I have seen even those who had placed implicit faith in his ability to win."

During the fight Corbett landed a couple of blows on Jeffries and made a number of foolish remarks to the referee. He was game to the end and whenever Jeffries landed a blow would make a jesting remark. In the sixth round during a clinch, just after Jeffries had punched him severely, he remarked to the referee: "Watch him, Eddie, he's trying to knock me out."

He also said: "You can't knock me out, go ahead and try it."

Jeffries only grinned and waded into his man all the harder.

CORBETT LACKED SPEED.
Corbett's system of training was undoubtedly beneficial to him from a physical point of view, but it apparently detracted from his speed. He did not keep away from Jeffries in the manner that was anticipated, but kept up close, clinching at every opportunity. He also did some clever ducking, thereby avoiding deadly blows, but all his cleverness was of no avail. He fought his fight, and when the time came Jeffries delivered the necessary blows and installed himself more firmly than ever as the champion heavy-weight pugilist of the world.

The crowd that witnessed the contest was undoubtedly the largest that ever assembled at a similar entertainment in California. Corbett was the gallery favorite and every tap that he landed on Jeffries was greeted with cheers. It was a sad physical wreck through drink and other dissipation. I trained faithfully for this fight and the result shows that I am the natural champion. I outboxed Corbett in every round, and carried the fight to him at every stage of the game. I must say, however, that Corbett put up a better fight than I thought he would. His punches had no steam, and when they did land, which was not often, they did not faze me. At no time was I distressed, and I felt confident of winning from the first. I would have put him out in the fourth if my glove had not burst. The half minute delay to replace the glove did Corbett a world of good and he was able to continue the contest. Though he knew I was his master and had lost his old-time confidence, he occasionally showed his old agility. I fought harder with my trainers during the conditioning than I did with Corbett, and I finished the contest as fresh as when I entered the ring. I have no plans for the future. Those matters are left to my manager and my trainer.

Jim Corbett said after the fight: "I did my best and lost. I fought the best I knew. Jeffries was too big for me and he is the best man in the world. If the public is satisfied with my fight I am glad to give Jeffries all the credit that is his due. I have no personal feelings in the matter. I have fought my last fight."

Corbett received many telegrams from Eastern friends, principally theatrical, offering him lucrative engagements, win or lose.

Ten thousand men were seated about the area in Mechanics' Pavilion to-night, representing an expenditure for seating accommodations aggregating $54,000. This is the largest crowd that ever assembled at a ring side in this country and the third largest sum in dollars and cents ever contested for. The two that exceeded it in receipts were the Corbett-Jeffries fight at Coney Island, $95,000, and the Corbett-McCoy fight at Madison Square Garden, New York, $63,000.

SCENE OF CONFUSION.
The scene about the big pavilion from 5 o'clock until the men stepped into the ring was one of confusion. The gallery ticket holders formed in line on Hayes, Larkin and Grove streets in three large rows, and although there was a lot of crowding and scurrillages in the at-

HOLDS WIFE A CAPTIVE

DESPERATE ILLINOIS MAN HUNTED BY DETERMINED FARMERS.

Supposed to Be Hiding with His Unwilling Wife in Woods Near St. Joseph.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

URBANA, Ill., Aug. 14.—Somewhere in the woods south of St. Joseph a man is hiding, for whose capture, dead or alive, $500 has been offered. With him is his wife, barefooted and clad only in a nightgown. He is held an unwilling captive by her husband, Sheriff Clark and 400 determined farmers are looking for the man, and if found it is probable that short work will be made of him by his pursuers.

He is Homer Mansple. Early this morning he entered the home of his father-in-law, Frank Lehman, near Sidney, and at the muzzle of a revolver compelled his wife to leave her bed and follow him, threatening to shoot her if she made an outcry. They were seen and pursued by Lehman, who soon gave up the chase to gather a crowd of neighbors. Four hundred armed men have been gathering through the day and Lehman has offered a reward of $500 for his son-in-law dead or alive.

The couple have been separated for about a year and have five children. About six weeks ago Mansple kidnapped two of his children and succeeded in getting them over into Indiana. Lehman learned of their location and brought them back.

JOHNSON MEN IN REVOLT

HOLD THEIR OWN DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IN CINCINNATI.

Select Delegates from Hamilton County to the Democratic Convention at Columbus.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14.—Those favoring Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, for Governor, held here to-night what was called "an adjourned Democratic convention of Hamilton county."

They claimed that there was present a quorum of the county delegates selected at the primaries last Tuesday. The attendance was larger than last Wednesday at the convention that selected state delegates, most of whom favor John L. Zimmerman for Governor. Letters were read from Judge E. J. Dempsey, Judge Robert Ramsey and other prominent Democrats, and stirring speeches were made by the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, who headed the last Democratic state ticket for secretary of state, Wallace Burtch, and Thomas Beathan, late Democratic candidates for Congress, and others, all holding that the convention controlled last Wednesday by Lewis G. Bernard was irregular.

All forms of temporary and permanent organization were followed, and resolutions were adopted favoring everything irregular at the Wednesday convention except the calling of that convention to order by Lewis G. Bernard as chairman of the Democratic committee of Hamilton county. As soon as Bernard rapped for order last Wednesday he read rules to govern the convention then, among those rules being one for a committee of five to select forty-two delegates to the state convention.

The resolution adopted to-night declared that Bernard's arbitrary action in declaring the rules adopted, before either the temporary or permanent organization was organized, was unprecedented. They recited that Joel Cline, former chairman of the board, had refused to entertain motions to reconsider the resolutions on rules, etc., and that the convention was then temporarily organized, or to listen to appeals of the meeting of Wednesday, Aug. 12, and declare the same null and void.

"That we appoint at this convention delegates to the state convention, one from each ward and township, as returned by the primaries of Tuesday last."

In selecting forty-two delegates to the state convention at Columbus, on Aug. 25, the Bernard district was not changed except where it was claimed that Bernard's committee on Wednesday failed to accept the primary selections. The convention adjourned subject to call of the chairman after the state convention, the same as was done by the other convention on Wednesday.

SAVED HIS OWN LIFE

DAVID ISAACS, OF KENTUCKY, KILLED WILLIAM McELROY.

Young Mountaineer Was Attacked with Shovel by the Negro and Shot in Self-Defense.

HIS KENTUCKY BLOOD BOILED

ISAACS COULD NOT STAND INSULTS OFFERED BY McELROY.

He Has Always Carried a Revolver Since His Brother Was Shot in a Feud, He Says.

David Isaacs, of Kentucky, yesterday afternoon shot and instantly killed a negro named William McElroy during a quarrel over the possession of a shovel. Both men were employed as laborers in a construction gang of the Belt Railroad, and the shooting was done at the crossing of the Belt Railroad and the Big Four tracks at Brightwood.

The murder of the negro was the outcome of a quarrel which had begun the day before, when the negro accused the young Kentuckian of using his shovel and told him, with a number of vile oaths, that if he took it again he would kill him. Yesterday Isaacs in some manner secured the shovel claimed by the colored man, and the fight began. McElroy, it is said, picked up a shovel that was lying near by and attempted to strike Isaacs over the head with it. Isaacs jumped to one side and the shovel descended with such force upon the railroad track that the handle was broken. Instantly the hot blood coursing through the veins of the young mountaineer began to boil, and with a quick movement he drew his revolver from his pocket and fired four times at his assailant. Two of the bullets took effect, one passing through the stomach and the other penetrating the stomach and liver of the negro. Either of the shots would have been fatal. McElroy was carried to a near-by shanty by fellow-workmen and the police were notified. The body was removed to the morgue in the ambulance, attended by Dr. Seaton.

RIOT THREATENED.
A number of white men, as well as colored, are employed as sectionmen on the construction work of the Belt Railroad, and it was with the greatest difficulty that a riot was prevented among the friends of both men.

Isaacs was arrested while on the way to the police station to give himself up to Detectives Hauser, Lancaster, Colbert and Kurtz, but at no time did he express regret for his act.

When seen at the police station yesterday afternoon he said that he shot the colored man in self-defense and believed that if he had not shot him he would have been killed with the shovel.

"Did you always carry a revolver, or did you bring this one along with you because you feared you would have use for it yesterday?" he was asked.

"I have carried a revolver ever since Tom, that's my brother, got killed last February," said Isaacs, and he told the story of his brother's trouble and the reason why he came here two weeks ago from Johnson county, Kentucky, up in the mountains, and don't know anything about the way people do here, but they all carry guns where I lived. Last February Tom, my brother, was took from home one night and shot by three fellows who was always his friends before, and since then I have carried a revolver because I feared I might need it."

GREEN COUNTRY BOY.
Isaacs is a green country lad of about twenty years and has seen little of the world outside of the mountains where he was reared. He had never been out of the county where he was born, he said, until two weeks ago, when he received a letter

CHRYSLER A WELSHER

DENISON HOUSE BAR BOOKMAKER FLED WITH A ROLL.

He Had Accepted Small Fortune on Corbett-Jeffries Fight and Had Planned Big Coup.

LOST HIS NERVE TOO SOON

CHRYSLER REALLY RAN AWAY FROM HIS OWN MONEY.

Victory of the Boiler Maker Happened as He Had Figured—Large Sum Involved in Affair.

Case of a Young Girl Found in His Resort Will Be Heard in the Juvenile Court.

Charles B. Chrysler, who made the book on the Corbett-Jeffries fight at the Denison House bar, stood to lose a big sum, vainly hoping to prevent the fight from taking place in event Corbett won the fight. He stood to win a fourth or a third that sum if Jeffries won. And his nerve failed him. Chrysler is missing, or was at a late hour last night, and with him a substantial part of the Corbett money he had received is also missing. He would be all right if the management of the Denison had not posted a notice to the effect that all bets made in the bar were off, and that the bettors would get their money back. As it is he may still be able to put up a fight for the money. If he recovers his nerve, for he was making the book on his own responsibility, it is said, and Jeffries did win for him.

Chrysler posted bets on the board in the Denison House bar at odds ranging from 2 to 1 to 4 to 1 that Jeffries would win, and he took all the Corbett money that was offered. It is said that he was banking the game to make good in the event Corbett won, but he was taking a gambler's chance on Jeffries' saving him from such a predicament. His judgment was good, but he fell down on execution.

SUSPICION WAS AROUSED.
It is understood that the affair was exposed when a guest of the Denison made a bet of $50 on Corbett Thursday night, receiving odds of 4 to 1. After he had received his ticket he began thinking over the proposition and his suspicions were aroused by the liberal odds. He was curious to know who was putting up Jeffries money in such bunches. He went to the manager of the Denison and stated his suspicions.

The manager immediately decided that Chrysler was planning to get away with the money in his possession some time yesterday and he conceived a plan to prevent the coup. He told the guest to say nothing about his suspicions, but that he would bring his roll to be deposited in the hotel safe over night and that they would return to him the money over to him again next morning, Friday, when he called for it. The scheme worked out admirably. Chrysler deposited about $1,000 in the hotel safe Thursday night and also left $200 with the bartender. Yesterday morning when he called for his roll he was told that the hotel would hold it for him as a guarantee of good faith.

Then it was that Chrysler's nerve failed him. He immediately began making his arrangements for flight, and at 4 o'clock he got away with that amount, whatever it was. It was reported last night that he was seen in the Capital National Bank about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, counting a roll of bills of large denomination. The talk of the town is that he got away with a sum ranging from $1,500 to $4,000. The first figures are liberal.

NO ONE WILL LOSE.
The management of the Denison, it was said last night, although not authoritative, will see that no one loses as a result of the affair. After posting the notice in the

WARRANT FOR METZLER

WINEROOM KEEPER MAY BE ARRESTED TO-DAY.

Case of a Young Girl Found in His Resort Will Be Heard in the Juvenile Court.

Anna Sanborn, a sixteen-year-old girl, living on West Thirtieth street, will be given a hearing in the Juvenile Court this morning to answer the charge of being a frequenter of winerooms and saloons.

Anna Sanborn, in company with Stella Rivers, was seen in Metzler's resort several times, and her case was investigated by the officers of the Juvenile Court, with the result that she was arrested and will be given a hearing to-day.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Metzler, it is understood, and he will be given a trial in the Police Court on the same charges under which Griswold was prosecuted.

Judge Whallon said last night that if Metzler was brought to trial, he would expect no leniency, as he was determined to assist in breaking up the wineroom evil, and would give all guilty parties the limit allowed by law.

EMBRACED AND ROBBED

J. W. RANGE, TRAVELING MAN, VICTIM OF A WOMAN.

Mrs. Lula Ferrell Accused of Taking $140 from Range's Wallet—Woman Is Under Arrest.

J. W. Range, a traveling man for the Eclipse Car Fender Company, of Cleveland, O., was robbed of $140 last night by a mysterious woman and Mrs. Lula Ferrell, an employee of Jack Zimmerman, was arrested for the theft by Sergeant Leet and Patrolmen Musgrave and Hume.

John Miller, the night janitor for the Board of Trade building, was also arrested, suspected of being an accomplice of the Ferrell woman and both were held at the police station.

Mr. Range stated at the police station that he was walking along Maryland street and arrived at Capitol avenue when he was approached by the woman and stopped. She threw her arms about him, and he was unable to get away. She carried a small package in her arms and turned to leave. So quick was the woman in her movements that he was unable to place the package that it was several minutes before Range noticed that he had been robbed. He at once notified the police and within ten minutes the woman was arrested and identified by him at the police station. She denied the theft, saying that she had never seen the man before. Miller, who was arrested with her, said that he was carrying a package for her person, but the police believe her guilty and she will be given a hearing in court in the morning. Miller, who was arrested as her accomplice, is suspected of disposing of the money for her before the police located her.

bar that all bets made there were declared off, it was the inference that those who had put up Corbett money would be refunded on presenting their tickets. When these tickets are turned in it will be possible to compute the amount Chrysler got away with.

The fact that Jeffries won the fight complicated the situation for Chrysler really won every bet he had taken, and he may be able to set up a claim not only to the money already in his possession but to that which the hotel management now holds. The question whether the Denison and the authority to call the bets off is the important point.

It is known that one man who had wagered between $300 and $400 on Corbett at odds of 2 to 1 weakened on his proposition Thursday night and made a demand through an intermediary for the return of his money. The demand was refused at first, but later Chrysler yielded and returned the bulk of the amount.

Chrysler lived at 2330 Park avenue and is slated in the city directory as the manager of the American Railway School at 10 North Pennsylvania street.

TALKS ABOUT MOBS.
Judge Loree, of Delaware, Addresses a Chautauqua Audience.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Charles B. Loree, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Delaware, spoke here to-day on "Manifestations of Mob Spirit." Because of recent events in his own and other States, he dwelt especially upon lynchings and race troubles. The tone of his address was judicial and mild, in sharp contrast to some of the recent utterances upon the same subject on the Chautauqua platform. His sentiments, however, were plainly and vigorously stated.

The speaker took a firm stand on the side of law and order and aroused his audience to repeated applause.

Parks also said that on Monday and Tuesday the strike would extend generally through many States in the Union, mentioning, among other places, Chicago, St. Louis and Boston. He said that these strikes are mainly made against the Iron League.

WILL BE PROSECUTIONS

REPORT OF THE APPRAISERS FOR McLELLAN AND DE KALB BANKS.

Alleged that Managers Knew Real Conditions of Institutions While Taking in Deposits.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 14.—The report of the three appraisers for the defunct McClellan and De Kalb banks completed their work last evening, and made a lengthy report requiring eighteen pages, covering over 50 items. The total amount of the property appraised as belonging to the two banks is $841,482. This amount only covers that property which is known to be worth the amount appraised and not the other sums which were in doubt. This does not include the notes against McClellan and Mrs. Elizabeth McClellan, nor Bank Manager Don A. Garwood, Cashier Claude Beckett, of the McClellan bank, nor Cashier L. R. Hatch, of the De Kalb bank. The amount the cashier had taken from the bank, out of any security is $400. The appraisers did not place any value on it. With such sums as the notes of Charles McClellan of $25,000, Mrs. McClellan of $23,000 and Don A. Garwood about $20,000, Dr. E. L. Stivers $3,000 and sundry amounts taken out by the cashiers of the two banks, the total assets would reach nearly $100,000. This would not pay out the indebtedness of the bank.

It is alleged the bank managers knew the real condition for some time, and for that reason there will be criminal prosecutions against the managers and the cashiers for taking in deposits from the creditors within so short a time before the bank closed, and even the same forenoon.

There is now $3,617.14 cash on hand in the two banks. The money has been sent to all of the debtors to satisfy the claims against them, or the same will be placed in the court for forced collections.

TO PREVENT "GRAFTING"

CONGRESS WILL BE ASKED TO FRAME SEVERAL NEW LAWS.

Regulation of Purchases of Postal Supplies Is Badly Needed—More Officials to Be Dismissed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Steps already have been taken by the postal authorities toward framing recommendations to Congress providing for a reorganization of the Postoffice Department. It is learned that the principal reforms to be proposed by the postmaster general relate to the purchase of supplies and will embody methods to prevent the wholesale "grafting" that has prevailed in the past. The present departmental organization is faulty in so far as it applies to the handling of funds, half a dozen officials having jurisdiction of supply divisions and authority to make contracts. This divided responsibility made it possible for the postmaster general to carry on the transactions which have been given publicity through the medium of indictments returned against a score of officials and contractors.

It is possible that the postmaster general may recommend the creation of a board vested with full authority, subject to the approval of the head of the department, to make contracts for supplies, so that the duties purchased are put into use, and also that exorbitant prices are not paid for the various articles purchased by the department.

Congress will be asked also to abolish the system of free delivery, formerly held by August W. Machen. It is the purpose of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Payne, chief of this division, to administer it himself with a chief clerk, who will attend to the details. The vacancies created by the dismissal of George W. Heavers at the head of the salaries and allowances will be filled as soon as the vacancies created by the dismissal of phase of the departmental problem. First Assistant Wynne has recommended the appointment of C. A. Waters, temporarily in charge of salaries and allowances, as the permanent head of that division. None of the vacancies created by the dismissal will be filled until the investigation is concluded. More postal officials will be involved in the event of "grafting" which has been so prevalent in the department. Charles T. McCoy, of Aberdeen, S. D., assistant superintendent of free delivery, who was railroaded into the service by Perry S. Heath, it is understood, will be dismissed. He was before Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Payne and was closely interrogated by that official. It is understood that the charges against McCoy are similar to those on which the dismissal of Charles Hedges, former superintendent of free delivery, was based. It is said that McCoy has admitted several of the counts against him. M. A. W. Lister, chief of the supply division, is another slated for dismissal, as well as John M. Masten, who is connected with the railway mail service. Announcement of McCoy's dismissal will be made in the near future.
